Continuing Education

Confederation College's Centre for Continuing Education in Thunder Bay offers both full-time programs and part-time courses to students outside of Thunder Bay. Many are designed to be flexible to work around your busy schedule. Depending on the course and your home community in northwestern Ontario, students can choose how they want to learn: classroom, online learning, distance education, and Virtual College.

Regional Campuses

Confederation College offers traditional classroom and distance education courses through our eight regional campuses: Dryden, Greenstone (Geraldton), Lake of the Woods (Kenora), Northshore (Marathon), Rainy River District (Fort Frances), Sioux Lookout, Red Lake and Wawa. Contact your local campus for more information (contact information is on the back of this Regional Calendar) or visit: www.confederationc.on.ca/regionalcampuses.

Your study options

Confederation College offers most courses through several different learning options, described below. Use this legend to see what options are available for your program of choice.

This online learning environment allows students to take courses at their own pace while adhering to the course structure and established deadlines. Instructors are accessible via a number of electronic communication tools such as email, course chats, and discussion boards.

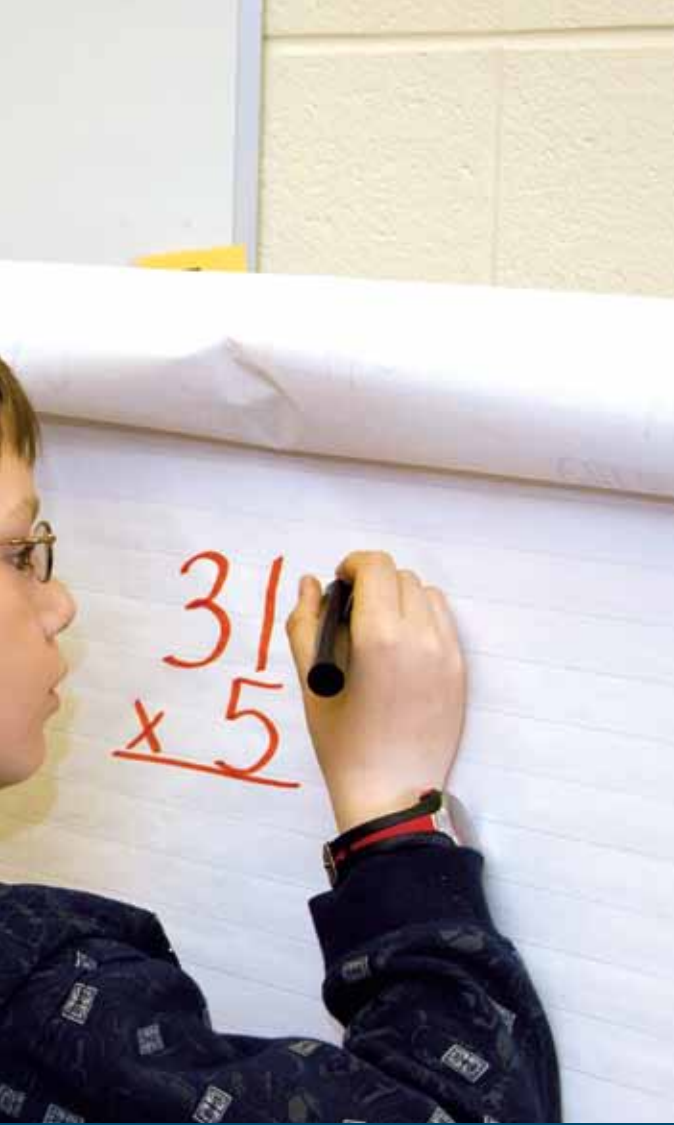

Students can participate in "live" e-classes via internet connection from their own home. The powerful system allows two-way communication with the classroom allowing students to listen, speak, and see visual materials including PowerPoint presentations, an electronic whiteboard, and other images.

Online Learning

Virtual College

Full-time

Now going to college full-time doesn't have to mean leaving town. Confederation College offers full-time programs in Business, Health & Community Services, Trades & Technology, and Access Programs you can take in your community or from your own home. To learn more, visit your local campus or find us online at: www.confederationc.on.ca/ce.

Part-time

Confederation College offers flexible part-time courses designed to meet the needs of students who need to put work and family first.

When you want: Traditional classes held evenings and weekends.

Where you want: Thunder Bay, your local campus, your home community in northwestern Ontario, or from home.

How you want: Classroom, Virtual College, distance education, and online learning options are available (see below for descriptions).

For more information about all Continuing Education programs and courses, and to find out how to register, visit www.confederationc.on.ca/ce

Students across northwestern Ontario can participate in specified classes via Internet connection in real time via software-enhanced audio and video conferencing technology. Students access classes from any regional campus or Contact North access site.

Confederation College offers most classes through traditional classroom settings, either through our regional campuses or in Thunder Bay. Evening and weekend classes are available – visit our website for current availability.

Distance Education

Classroom

Confederation College Brings Education to You

This Regional Calendar presents a quick overview of Confederation College courses and programs available at our regional campuses or through distance education via several computer-assisted options.

In order to earn the credential listed, students must successfully complete all courses specified (check the website for more information). Participants attend classes full-time. Faculty may be located at various campuses throughout northwestern Ontario during the term of the program. Communication in real-time, lectures, PowerPoint presentations and other classroom activity is delivered via various forms of distance education technology, regardless of student location.
